ARTIST
GRAPHIC DESIGNER

My name is Carlos Callejo. I am an artist who has worked in and around the L[illegible] Angeles area for over [illegible] years. I have produced art using different art media including: silkscreening, airbrush, drawing and painting, street murals, layout and paste up assignments and commercial signage. Along with my working experiences I have received various merit awards from private business and city officials for my artistic contributions which I produced on a volunteer basis for the City of Los Angeles.

Throughout my working experiences I have noticed how my services have benefited many businesses and community organizations by adding an inviting touch to their product or by emphasizing their concern for neighborhood development. These experiences have taught me how to stimulate and promote business and influence customer selectivity. Involvement in community related art projects along with my academic art background has given me an insight into dealing with different audiences through my art. This and the fact that I've used different art media has produced a versatility in my work that I feel is rarely found in most graphic designers or artists.
